- The Afloat Library Program was managed by the Library Officer, but this collateral duty was removed by a NAVADMIN in 2017.
- On large decks, the Library is typically still run by the Chaplain or the RPs, on smaller ships it's predominantly ran by the RPs.
- The Navy General Library Program outfits all new ships and submarines with a new library, provides paperback books to the fleet and other library materials if supplemental funding is provided.

- Provides guidance on the operation of afloat libraries to include the disposal of all library equipment and materials.
- Library Multimedia Resource Centers (LMRCs) use space-saving digital technology to increase the holdings of afloat libraries by enabling the storage of reading materials on computer media and providing e-mail and Internet connectivity.
- The technology supports access to accredited educational programs which enables crewmembers to pursue advanced education opportunities.

- New Ship/Sub Library Outfitting: with funding from NAVSEA, every new ship and submarine is outfitted with a library consisting of books of various print, paperbacks, magazines, NERDS, Playaways, DVDs, small electronics, games and other materials as determined by ship personnel and funding availability.

- (NMPS) procures and distributes entertainment motion pictures and related equipment to afloat units within the Navy.
- Entertainment motion pictures are leased, rather than purchased and as such, lease agreements contain specific provisions governing the use of the media with regard to viewing locations and patron eligibility.
- Program management for film entertainment in the Navy lies solely with NMPS; commands and individuals are prohibited from using APF or NAF, contacting, or negotiating with any commercial source for the purpose of procuring entertainment motion picture products.

- All entertainment motion pictures distributed by NMPS are copyrighted properties that are licensed only for public performance and cannot be duplicated, edited, or loaned for private use.
- Updates are coming on the N-DVD program, changing format soon.
